Sen. Eugene McCarthy

McCarthy backs HHH...

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., endorsed Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency Tuesday but left his own political future clouded in a smokescreen of vague answers.

McCarthy said in announcing he would vote for the man who defeated him for the Democratic nomination, that he would not seek re-election to the Senate in 1970 as a "candidate of my party" nor would he seek the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. In a formal statement, the Minnesota senator fired fresh criticism at party leaders; handling of the Chicago convention. He said he would not ask young people to stay in the party in another election "unless there has been change" in its organization.

McCarthy's endorsement of Humphrey was marked with the reluctance he has displayed in refusing his support to Humphrey, a long time political associate, since the stormy August party convention.

He said he is backing Humphrey because of the latter's record and what the nominee has said about domestic problems in this campaign. He said Humphrey is his choice over Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee.

"Hubert Humphrey has shown a better understanding of our domestic needs and a stronger will to act than has been shown by Richard Nixon," McCarthy said.

He added that "with Hubert Humphrey as president, the possibility of scaling down the arms race and reducing military tensions in the world would be much greater than it would be with Richard Nixon..."

McCarthy declined comment on whether he thinks Humphrey can defeat Nixon. But the Minnesota senator said he thinks Humphrey's position has improved lately.

... 'Thanks, Gene,' says Hubert

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) - "I'm a happy man this morning," said Hubert H. Humphrey.

The vice-president, appearing on a Pittsburgh television show, said that he had predicted all along that McCarthy would eventually support him because of their long personal connections and the friendship of their families.

Humphrey was asked why it had taken so long for McCarthy to express his support.

The vice-president said that his Minnesota colleague had gone through a long ordeal and it takes "a long time for wounds to heal."

"I say, thank you, Gene," Humphrey said.

Democratic National chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, Humphrey's campaign manager, said in advance of McCarthy's announcement that "it will be nice to have Sen. McCarthy aboard."

O'Brien would not speculate on the impact of McCarthy's announcement. He noted, however, that most of the leaders of McCarthy's drive for the presidential nomination already had come over to Humphrey's camp.

Humphrey said he expects "lots of undecided votes to come our way" in the last days before the election. "There are a lot of Democrats coming back to the party. The McCarthy announcement will have a decided effect."

The vice-president, in remarks prepared for Philadelphia, said "Next Tuesday you will cast what may well be the most important vote of your life." He acknowledged that while Nixon has been "running a slick campaign," the Humphrey drive had been uphill.

But, he added, "Now it's moving and gaining momentum every minute. I've felt it all last week and this from New York to California, from Albuquerque to Akron, from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh."

"And Mr. Nixon knows it... this next seven days are going to be the longest seven days in Mr. Nixon's life."

His Republican opponent, Humphrey said, believes he has the election in the bag. "But when he opens the bag Nov. 6, Humphrey and Muskie will jump out," the vice-president said.

Humphrey said despite what the pollsters say - and they say he's trailing - "We can win."

University defers women applicants

The University will start deferring women applicants tomorrow for next fall's freshman class. Admissions Director John W. Martin said Bowling Green has already received 3,000 applications from prospective women students and can only accommodate 1,650 for next September's freshman class.

"About half of next fall's class, expected to be about 3,300 students, will be women," he said.

"High school guidance counselors have already been notified that applications will be deferred this week because residence and academic facilities for women on the main campus have been filled," Mr. Martin said.

He suggested some alternatives for women applying for admission after Oct. 31. They may apply for admission to summer school in June, 1969, and resume their studies at the beginning of winter quarter in January, 1970; apply for admission on the spring quarter, March, 1970; or enroll in the fall at a Bowling Green Academic Center in Bryan, Fostoria, or Fremont or at the Firelands Campus in Huron.

Mr. Martin said the admissions situation at Bowling Green "has followed the usual pattern." Last year, Bowling Green began deferring admissions for women Oct. 27.

Since Oct. 1, Bowling Green has mailed more than 13,000 applications to interested students.

The University is still accepting applications from prospective men students.

Robert Turner goes it alone

Debate flops at YAF-SDS forum

By RICK HARRIS
Staff Writer

The appearance last night of Robert Turner, a conservative and Vietnam expert, was originally planned as a debate between him and a spokesman from Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). It never occurred --- the SDS spokesman failed to appear.

One spokesman for the Young Americans for Freedom, Turner's sponsoring group said, "Whenever it comes time to debate, they (SDS) just never seem to show. Their man from Cleveland couldn't make it and then no campus delegate would come through."

Turner, author of over a dozen publications and a 450 page manuscript in support of American commitment in Vietnam, is apparently used to this sort of treatment. National leaders of SDS, United States Senators and noted anti-war professors have on several occasions refused to debate with him.

"We must pursue a policy of victory," Turner said. "South Vietnam must have the guarantee of self determination. It is a separate nation---even Ho Chi Minh has said this when it was to his benefit."

Turner pointed out that it was impossible for the U.S. to violate the Geneva agreement "since neither we nor the South Vietnamese signed it."

"Vietnam is actually a test case for international Communism," he said. "Should the U.S. fall in Vietnam, it shows it can fall elsewhere."

Turner said he believed that the "pacifists were sincere -- just as sincere as Neville Chamberlain."

He stressed bad points of a US withdrawal policy for Vietnam. "Should we withdraw, the Viet Cong will immediately take over South Vietnam and expand into the rest of southeast Asia. They have violated every cease fire provision, why should they stop now?"

"People seem to think that a withdrawal will save lives, but they seem to forget the purges that Communists have been infamous for," he said. "They have been using the National Liberation Front since 1935."

Turner's plan for victory was military superiority, education of the people and a belief by the American people that the war was in the U.S.'s best interests.

"Every demonstration in the streets over here does more for Ho Chi Minh than anything," Turner said. In the audience an SDS member applauded but was in the minority.

"The Communists aren't debating whether to bury us or not, just which shovel to use," concluded Turner.

Ohio politics on BG TV

Channel 70, Bowling Green State University's television station has scheduled programs of public interest this week as political campaigns swing into their final phases.

The program, "Candidates and Issues", to be shown at 7 tonight, will feature an interview with L. Richard Batzler, Democratic candidate for the 5th Ohio District in Congress. Mr. Batzler's opponent, Delbert Latta, was not available for an interview.

Also on the same program will be an informational film about "The Ohio State Issues One and Two and their importance to Ohio voters."

On election night, next Tuesday, Channel 70 will carry continuous election coverage of all local candidates and issues in Wood and Hancock counties. Results of the national election and state levies and bond issues will also be covered. Programming will begin at 9 p.m. and continue until voting trends are established.

"Election Review," a summary of final tabulations and interviews with candidates and other election officials, will be produced at 7 p.m. Nov. 6.

SHAKESPEARE'S "MEASURE FOR MEASURE" -- Pompey, played by Bob Arnold, flirts with his employer Mistress Overdone, played by Bonnie Banyard, in the University Theatre production playing Oct. 31, through Nov. 2, in the Main Auditorium. The box office will be open between 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. daily. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Protest handled well

A possibly serious confrontation between students and administration was avoided Sunday night when both sides kept clear heads.

The students refused to leave the University Union after closing hours to try to force the administration to open a building on campus other than the dormitories 24 hours a day.

The administration handled the situation fairly well. Union officials called Dr. Bond, who sent his assistant, Dr. Ward, to the Union immediately.

The students were given a chance to leave before disciplinary action was taken, and they wisely decided to leave on condition they be allowed to talk to Dr. Bond Monday morning.

The administration should be commended for not calling in the police immediately without talking to the students and finding out what their complaints were.

But Monday, the administration did make a mistake. Dr. Ward had promised the students they could talk to Dr. Bond. When three spokesmen for the students finally did talk to somebody, Dr. Bond was not present.

Dr. Ward told the students that Dr. Bond is a busy man, which he probably is, but the promise should not have been made if it couldn't be kept.

The students, also, could have handled the situation somewhat better. They should have been aware that there is a bill pending before Student Council concerning keeping the Rathskeller open 24 hours a day.

The statements that have been made since the meeting on Monday add little to the dialogue on this subject. The students have said if there is no action on the bill or a negative action by the administration, they will again refuse to leave the Union.

The administration has said if they do sit-in again, they will be arrested.

It seems that the two sides have now established inflexible positions and are challenging each other over a rather small issue. These type of bargaining positions should be saved for when a truly important issue arises.

We are inclined to think that neither side wants to commit itself so strongly on such a small item.

Says BG should not instill morals

BGSU claims that it is not our foster parents, but in reality it is trying to be just that.

The university does not know every individual well enough nor has the right to take the position of a parent. We are paying to go here for the business of a better education, not to have "morals" instilled by someone who is not qualified.

For example, why should freshman women have hours while the men of the freshman class do not? Is BGSU saying that the women are not as mature as the men? In what way have the men shown their maturity over the women?

If the University thinks they are instilling high moral standards by this prejudiced rule, they have been greatly misled. A girl will act no different after curfew than before curfew. Time is totally irrelevant concerning moral behavior, and to think that they are "saving" girls by dragging them in early is a misconception.

Also consider the plight of a girl who only wants to stay out until 2:30 or 3:00. She cannot come back then; she must stay out for the entire night. This gets complicated as she then must find a decent place to stay. Perhaps fewer girls would have to sign out for the entire night if they were permitted to use their own judgment and come in when they wanted to.

A person of college age and intelligence should have the maturity to decide which hours are best in specific situations.

If a girl "needs" to have someone tell her when to go "night-night" then she has no business being in college away from home. She's permitted to do as she pleases at hours before curfew. So why not after curfew hours? Does a girl lose her maturity after 12 on weekdays and 2 on weekends?

Having no hours does not take away the rights of others. If they want to come in at 11 they are able to. No one wants to stop them.

Let's just add a right. Those who feel they are capable of staying out later should have an equal chance. How can it possibly infringe upon the rights of those who go to bed early? There are quiet hours inside the dorm itself to protect those studying or sleeping.

It is time for BGSU to drop this sexual prejudice and let the women as well as men have the freedom of choice. Why continue with an unfair ruling just because young ladies must be "protected" by tradition.

Personal choice

To Robert H. Ziegler (BG News, October 23) and People Like Him: "Apathy" is lack of emotion, lack of interest, a listless condition, or indifference. It is possible that political involvement for some (e.g., attending Gilligan's campaign speech) is subordinate to academic involvement (or social involvement, etc.). It is the individual's choice, not yours, as to what constitutes the hierarchy of Important Things. There is nothing to justify your branding 12,500 students "Apathetic" and equating apathy with absence.

Cheers WBGU

Three cheers for WBGU-FM. A change in programming was certainly warranted. It is a pleasure to have good popular music (e.g. Sinatra, Coniff, Elgart) available for afternoon listening enjoyment. Music of this variety is rapidly becoming a scarcity.

However, I do fear that the present format will eventually evolve into the acid-rock sounds so prevalent in radio today. A step in this direction would surely be a step backwards.

Last week WBGU announced the coming of two new programs--one jazz, the other folk. Both are to be aired beginning early next month. Bravo!

The black poet

By DENNIS McMICKENS
Student Columnist

Black poetry, like Black life in America, is at once alike and different from the poetry of White Americans. While it follows, usually after a short lag, the main historical development of Black poetry, it has in addition a life of its own, which springs from the soil of a distinctive minority culture.

It is no accident that approximately 85% of the poetry written by American Blacks deal principally or exclusively with Black characters in a Black setting. This racial emphasis is simply a literary echo of cultural reality.

As Ralph Ellison has remarked, "Black life is a by-product of Western civilization, and in it, if only one possesses the humanity and humility to see, are to be discovered all those impulses, tendencies, life, and cultural forms to be found elsewhere in Western Society."

The following poems are examples of today's Black poetry:

My Caucasian Brother
by Dovie Washington

There is a Caucasian brother I know
That don't want me as his neighbor next door.
He says I'll bring the value of his property down,
But I'm cleaner than he is, now how does that sound?
I've got less money, but I wear better clothes.
I know why he don't want me next door.
He's afraid of me, he thinks he knows the score.
He figures if I get an inch, I'll take a mile
And make him look bad all the while.

Each time he refers to a Black as "Their Kind"
Only brings out in the open how small his mind.

He'd love to have me cook his food and nurse his babe,
Scrub and clean for him and be called his maid,
But fate didn't work things out that way
We work side by side each and every day.

His sister in his eyes is too good for my brother, Yet in the dark, he wants one of my girls for his lover.

"Some of my best friends are colored," he said,
I know he wishes all those best friends were dead.
I'm sorry about that, White brother of mine,

We're very much alive and we're going to trouble your mind.

The law says we'll live next door and integrate schools,
We're going to put it on your mind, we're no-body's fool.

We're registered and voting and having our say,
Not tomorrow, you'll see, this is our day.
I don't want a thing that belongs to you,
I only want what's mine, rightfully mine, that's true.

I'll live where I please, and that means anywhere,
For I'm as much a citizen as you, and that makes it fair.

Now we were born in this country, you must realize,
That nine out of ten, of you had to be naturalized.

It's true, some members of my race don't come up to par,
But there is some members of your race that these excell by far.

You said the Detroit riot was racial, but that's a lie,
For I saw White and Black rioting side by side.

There were times you tried to lynch us all, but we wouldn't die,
You turned the dogs and water on us but we wouldn't cry.
Each time the police killed one, you let him go free.

There We'll Be.

Nearly Blind
by An Unknown

The whiteman's whiteness is so blinding I can hardly see,
Seems like all that whiteness is frowning on the blackness of me.

But that's all right, I don't worry, oh, there will be a better day,
Cause our unity of blackness will make it come and stay.

When that day comes I'll be able to see;
All My People Free!

Neumann praises computers' values

By MARYANN DUDLEY
Staff Writer

"I'm pretty convinced that computers are here to stay, and they're going to become something like the car; not a luxury, but a fact of life," said Richard C. Neumann, director of Computational Services at Bowling Green State University.

The computer at the center is so much in demand, that it is certainly here to stay.

"In 1963, I was one of the first people at the University to run a test on the computer," said Neumann. "When I gave a multiple-choice test to one of my classes and used the computer to grade the test. The use of the computer has been growing ever since."

Due to the growth of the University, a new computer, and the 10-week quarter, the computer center is overloaded with work, said Neumann. The center is open 24 hours weekdays and almost all weekend.

But Neumann feels that once the patterns and demands of change are understood, the center will be able to handle its job without an overload of work.

Printouts are one of the services the center provides. A printout can be as simple as a list, or it can be a sum of numerous details.

"We have a fantastic number of printouts," said Mr. Neumann. "Every night we do printouts for the library, listing books that are taken out. Twice a week we do printouts of overdue books," he added. "We also do a daily printout on the financial situation of the University."

Some of the other services the center provides include computing bills, student information sheets, and the student telephone directory.

"We do all of the work, where it's appropriate, for students and classes, and for free," said Neumann.

Regarding the future of the center, Neumann said, "Our hope is to be able to provide a sufficient amount of computing power and to give students and faculty the feeling they have this power available to them."

Approximately 35 people work at the center, eight of which are students at the University. Students can secure jobs at the center through the Financial Aid Office or through classes in quantitative analysis and control, provided the students are capable and there is a position open.

Nixon withdraws commercial

NEW YORK - The National Broadcasting Co. said Tuesday that Richard M. Nixon's campaign forces have withdrawn a television commercial which Hubert H. Humphrey's forces called a "smear."

"It's not NBC's decision whether to run the commercial or not, but the Nixon-Agnew campaign committee has decided to withdraw that particular commercial from all future broadcasts," an NBC spokesman said.

The commercial showed a smiling Humphrey with scenes of war, poverty and rioting.

Kennedy foundation announced

WASHINGTON-Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., announced Tuesday the creation of a Robert F. Kennedy foundation to work in areas of poverty, crime and education as "a living memorial" to his assassinated brother.

The $10-million foundation, to be called the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial, will be "an action-oriented program that we think will carry on his concerns, his actions, his efforts to work on so many of the problems in this country that have no solutions," Kennedy said.

VC's beaten—Westmoreland

WASHINGTON-Gen. William C. Westmoreland proclaimed Tuesday "our infantry has beaten the guerrilla at his own game" in South Vietnam.

Marine biology course set for winter, spring quarters

The biology department is now taking pre-registration applications for Biology 474.

Biology 474 is a marine biology course open to a limited number of qualified students. The course involves individual research in marine biology.

During the course, which runs through both the winter and spring quarters, the student will be expected to design and carry out a research project of his own choosing. To aid in the research projects a field trip will be taken during the spring break.

The trip will be to the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory at Ocean Springs, Miss. where students will be able to collect specimens from the ocean depths.

Due to the unusual makeup of the course, which has no regularly scheduled class meetings, no one will be permitted to register for it without making a personal application to do so. Applicants need not be biology majors, but a basic background in science is preferred.

All students interested in applying should contact Mrs. Cynthia Groat in 538 Life Science Bldg.

Editor stresses University objectivity

No theme for '69 Key

The 1969 Key will not have a theme.

It will be looking at the University campus through objective eyes, according to Dave Miller, editor. Miller feels that a yearbook should have a presiding point of view but that "to be an objective yearbook it should not have a theme."

The Key is also going through some revisions staff-wise, with the addition of section editors, each of whom will be working on a specific area of campus life.

Miller hopes to accomplish three things by the introduction of section editors. It is a good way to judge upcoming sophomores, he said. Second, he hopes to bring more cohesiveness into the sections, and hopes to retain promising upperclassmen.

Among other revisions in the staff are the addition of an editing staff and an identification staff.

The editing staff will be in charge of writing headlines, captions, and proofreading. The identification staff will identify people in large group shots.

Miller cited lack of identification as one of the main reasons the '68 Key failed to receive an "All American" award from the Associated Collegiate Press. Last year's Key received a "First Class" award falling 200 points short of the 7100 needed for an "All American."

Miller pointed out that an "All American" rating concerns the technical aspects of a yearbook.

The Key now has its offices in the new Student Services Bldg. According to Miller the new office has greatly improved darkroom facilities and, "the environment is more conducive to intellectualism," he concluded.

Panhel postpones 'after hours' party

The sororities' annual "after hours" party to be held at midnight, Thursday, Nov. 14, has been temporarily cancelled, it was announced at Monday's meeting of Panhellenic Council. Due to the conflict with the AWS Best Dressed Girl Contest, another night will be determined for the party.

The new Friday open house pledge parties will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Mid-American Room, the Rathskeller, the Ohio Suite and the Historical Suite of the Union. The social chairmen of the pledge classes will meet to make all the arrangements. Any previously planned parties may be held after the open houses at 7:30 p.m.

The open rush period, ending Monday, Oct. 28, brought 33 more women into the Greek system. This does not include the pledges of Delta Sigma Theta, whose rush period has been extended until Nov. 4.

At the Panhel meeting, Dave Thomas of the United Christian Fellowship encouraged more communication between the UCF and the Greek system through the use of available speakers and films.

Coming events announced for the sororities include the AWS Big-Little Sis Hootenany, Nov. 8, the Panhel Scholarship Dessert, Nov. 11, and the Junior Panhel meeting Oct. 30.

Daryl Haines, assistant hall director of Rodgers Quadrangle, is instituting an experimental program in Rodgers, to encourage student faculty involvement.

SFIP, Student-Faculty Involvement Program, has as its main goals the breaking of communication barriers between student and faculty, promoting academic growth through self-confidence, and providing a better understanding of the total University community.

To achieve the goals of the program two teachers will be assigned to each wing of Rodgers. These 44 faculty members will meet once a week informally with their wing to become better acquainted and speak more openly about problems, ideas and intentions.

These faculty members are requested to eat lunch informally with the students. Seminars will be set up by other faculty members to discuss various important questions and issues.

Nearly a quarter of the faculty has shown interest in becoming involved. Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., vice-president of Academic Affairs has endorsed the program, which also has the support of the administration.

The SFIP is in the process of being molded from ideas to practices. Haines' hopes to have the entire program in action by the end of the first quarter and continue the remainder of this year as an experiment.

BG and OU sponsor studies in Germany

A program putting the college student into a different type of environment than he is used to in the United States, was started by the German and Russian Department of Bowling Green State University and the Department of Modern Languages of Ohio University this past September.

The program is held at the University of Salzburg, Austria. The University offers courses in liberal arts, theology, and law; and it cooperates closely with the music academy there, The Mozateum.

"The program is primarily for undergraduates of Bowling Green State University and Ohio University but any student who has completed at least two years of college German or the equivalent and has a junior standing or beyond may apply providing he meets grade requirements," said Dr. Dzidra Shllaku, acting chairman of the University's German and Russian Department.

The program will be held annually at the University of Salzburg with the following features: a full nine months of academic studies in three quarters, a carefully designed curriculum of German studies, an environment which demands constant use of German, and a group program supervised by an American professor, said Dr. Shllaku.

All classes will be taught on the quarter system and will follow the academic calendars of Bowling Green and Ohio University. "Since the emphasis in the program is on the German language and civilization, all classes will be taught in German," said Dr. Shllaku.

Students will be housed with German speaking roommates in modern dormitories.

"Students are free to travel during the holiday and recess periods. They may also remain in Europe after the end of the academic year if they care to do so," said Dr. Shllaku.

Soccer team must solve tight TU Rocket defense

By GARY DAVIS
Sports Editor

The Bowling Green soccer team will be fighting to stay above the 500 mark when they host the Toledo Rockets this afternoon at 3:30. This marks the final home match for the Falcons who are currently 4-4 on the season.

The Falcons who were riddled 3-0 by Ohio State over the weekend, will again host a squad with a losing record. Toledo is only 2-5-2 on the campaign, but Falcon coach Mickey Cochrane has plenty of respect for the visitors.

Toledo, in their first year, has captured a 4-1 decision over Bluffton and upset Ohio Wesleyan 1-0. The Falcons were ripped 5-0 by the Wesleyan club. In their last two games the Rockets have gained a pair of ties, the most recent with Cleveland State.

Cleveland State was 8-0 on the season until that tie and are considered a heavy favorite to capture a bid to the national tourney along with Akron. The Toledo Rockets on the strength of a fine defensive effort matched the powerful Cleveland booters.

It is their defense that has kept them in their games. "They are a strong defensive club," said Mickey Cochrane. "They pack the goal and it is very difficult to score."

The coach described their defense as an "umbrella" with the backs collapsing into the goal area to shut off opponents. "We'll have to do things differently to score on them," said Cochrane. "You just can't fast break on them."

Bowling Green will be forced to work more to the outside in the contest, an area where they have been somewhat weak this campaign. "We're not getting the crosses or getting effective shots from the outside," added Cochrane.

Unofficial Soccer Standings

Bowling Green	2	0	0
Kent State	2	1	1
Ohio University	2	1	0
Toledo	0	1	1
Miami	0	3	0

"Unfortunately they are strongest where we are weakest," said Cochrane. The Falcons have been blanked four times this campaign and three times more than any one single previous season.

"We have got to drill a couple by them," said the coach who feels certain that his defense can do the job against the Toledo offense.

This is the weak spot if any for the Rockets. Only Ron Schwarz has been scoring for the Rockets, but Cochrane describes him as one of the best forwards around.

"He's probably second best only to Malcomb of Akron," said Cochrane. Malcomb is leading the OCSA by a wide margin in scoring.

The Ohio State Buckeyes rolled into Bowling Green on Saturday with a weak offense, but still poured through three goals aided heavily by Falcon miscues.

"We had a terrible day against Ohio State, but we can't let it color the last two games for us," warned Cochrane. "We played two fine games before that loss and we can do the job."

The Falcons are currently leading the unofficial MAC standings in soccer with a 2-0 mark. They must however, win this match to retain the lead over Kent State who is 2-1.

Frosh stop OSU

BY
DENNY MILLER

The freshman soccer team kept their perfect record intact by defeating Ohio State University Saturday 4-0.

Once again it was easy going for the Falcons as Bill Minarik banged in an early goal to give the birds a lead they would never lose. Another goal, this time by Ed Marshman, made it 2-0 at the half.

After the half it was more of the same as the Falcons added two more goals, another by Minarik and one by Carroll, and the defense once again rose to the occasion. The baby Falcons have not been scored upon in their last ten quarters.

Coach Jim Thieser had nothing but praise for the birds. "It was a real team effort, as the balanced scoring indicates, and the defense was really great. All of my boys really seem to care and have a lot of desire."

"I don't say enough about them."

The booters have very impressive statistics for the year, outscoring their opponents 36-6, and outshooting them 245-66. But Coach Thieser is not one to rest on the stats. "The team and their statistics have really been impressive, but the season isn't over yet. We've got one more ahead of us and when we take the field then our stats won't mean a thing."

The team's next game is today with Toledo.

Marshall game to be televised

The Bowling Green vs Marshall football game will be broadcast on WBGU-TV channel 70 this Sunday November 3, at 6 p.m.

The television play-by-play announcers will be Tom Willett, WBGU-TV's evening sportscaster, Warren Scholler of the BGSU athletic department, and channel 70's Jim Krone will add their comments during the broadcast.

Falcon Flashback is a series hosted by Jim Lessig, BGSU's Assistant to the Athletic Director bringing coach Don Nehlen and guests together to view the highlights of the past weeks football game. This program helps to give the viewer a closer look at Falcon coaches, players and sports activities.

Mr. Ronald Gargasz executive sports producer plans to broadcast a number of basketball and hockey games.

The first hockey game to be televised will be played on January 10. As the season progresses WBGU-TV hopes to carry as many games as possible.

Following the basketball broadcasts a Falcon Flashback program will be shown on Mondays at 10 p.m. with BG's head basketball coach and guests.

The projected plan for the rest of the year is to broadcast the OSU-BG invitational hockey tournament. Also there will be wrestling, swimming, gymnastics and lacrosse contests televised.

Help wanted:

Does the growing youth market offer a new potential?

Situation: By 1972, 46% of the U.S. population will be under the age of 25. If this is a new market with substantial potential, should we base our product concept on economy or performance characteristics?

Consideration: The under 25 market poses some interesting opportunities. For one, today 142% more young people work toward advanced college degrees than did the youth market of 10 years ago. That would seem to indicate a need for a new car based on economy of purchase and operation.

But, market affluence and the increasing number of multiple car households could indicate that a new vehicle should be developed around high style and high performance.

Need the facts and your analysis of this assignment for a meeting with management next month. Thanks.

Prof's protest unheard as rats hole up in Hanna Hall

By PETE BROMLEY
Staff Writer

The rats are still roaming in Hanna Hall, and the Maintenance Department makes it clear that "they are not OUR problem."

Teaching Fellow David Wood, whose protest against the presence of mice and rats in the deteriorating sub-structure of Hanna Hall has gone unheard, claims that nothing has been done to rectify the situation. "During the summer when no one was here, the maintenance department placed rat poison throughout the basement in Hanna. However, since the return of the students to the campus for fall quarter, our complaints have been futile, and there has been no attempt to solve the problem," stated the irritated English teacher.

Wood, who occupies an office in 8-J Hanna, was himself nearly a victim of an irate rat. He has been holding his student conferences in the Union cafeteria because he feels it "is not right to subject the student to such hazardous and deplorable conditions."

At present, the 35-year-old Hanna Hall houses several storage rooms, one classroom still used, and numerous offices. Recent attempts have been made to modernize the facilities, but little progress has resulted.

A spokesman for the Department of Maintenance, who refused to identify herself when contacted about the situation, said that they were "neither responsible nor concerned about the problem." The Department of Auxiliary Services added that they were "completely unaware of the situation" and claimed that it had never been approached to correct the situation. However, Mrs. Ferringer of the same department said that an exterminator would be notified and promised that action would be taken. In the meantime, the rats remain unchallenged in Hanna Hall, and at least one member of the faculty remains enraged.

McCarthy's fans

Votes split on HHH, Nixon

By JOHN B. SCOTT
Staff Writer

What do supporters of Eugene McCarthy think now that he has failed to get the nomination for President? This question was put to his supporters in the Bowling Green State University community.

"I'm sorry he didn't get the nomination. I think it was a mistake for the Democratic Party and the nation," said Mike Saba, junior in Liberal Arts. Saba was active last spring in campaigning for McCarthy in Dayton, Cleveland, as well as in Indiana.

Between McCarthy and Kennedy, they carried the primaries, yet when the convention opened, Humphrey already had the majority of delegates. The official goal now for the McCarthy organization is to support the Congressmen and Senators who backed the Peace Plank of the Democratic Party Platform.

"The hope is to get as much control as possible of the local party machinery so that at the next convention McCarthy will get the delegates that he is entitled to," said Saba.

Saba went on to say that he felt that the backers of McCarthy were independent; that is, they would not be influenced a great

Vice President Humphrey

Galahad comes; Damsel shocked

Many girls dream of the day when they will be carried off by their own personal Knight in Shining Armor.

With Nancy Kress, sophomore in Liberal Arts, this was a standing joke. She often told her friends Bunny Zielinski and Debbie Fulkert that one day the intercom would bring notice that HER knight was in the lobby---armor and all.

One evening last week, the intercom did go off, announcing an unexpected caller. Nancy went down to the lobby, embarrassed because everyone seemed to be staring at her---and her caller---a knight in a full suit of armor.

Behaving as any other damsel would in such a situation, Nancy turned and ran, with her caller clanking after in hot pursuit.

He finally caught up with her, and presented her with a gift and a note which read, "Nancy, please accept this token in the gallant spirit in which it is bestowed. Till we meet again---Sir Galahad."

Nancy will probably never know if they DO meet again, since Galahad's true identity remained hidden behind his iron mask.

PARDON ME -- I'm your date for this evening -- Galahad.

Sounds Unlimited here tonight

"Sounds Unlimited," a folk-singing trio, will appear in the Carnation Room tonight through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. sponsored by the UAO.

Presented as a part of the Coffee House Circuit, the group offers a wide variety of singing, strumming, and choreography.

They combine original compositions with their own interpretations of "old standards."

The three members of the group are Erica Schmitz, Dick Seale, and Jon Adelson.

Miss Schmitz has worked as a model, solo vocalist, and has done behind-the-scenes work at the Syracuse University Regent Theater.

Seale, a self-taught guitarist, is the group's composer and arranger, and has worked extensively in New England, New York, and Canada.

Adelson, third member of the group holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from Tufts University.

All performances are free and open to the public.

SOUNDS UNLIMITED -- This trio will perform tonight through Saturday in the Carnation Room.

Books, recordings donated to BG library

A gift of books and recordings, valued at approximately $50,000 was presented to the University Library by Dr. William Randle, former professor at Western Reserve University.

Dr. Randle values a set of unreleased recordings at $4,000. These recordings date back to the mid-1940's.

Phonograph recordings are related to the study of American culture. This collection includes jazz, pop music, country and western, gospel, and blues.

Also included in Dr. Randle's gift to the Library is a complete set of Sears & Roebuck catalogues on microfilm. These are valued at $600 for the set, according to Mr. William L. Schurk, audio librarian at the University Library.

Dr. Randle is presently a radio personality and is employed by the Cleveland WERE Radio Station.

A professor who supported McCarthy with his time and money was Dr. Howard Hamilton, chairman of the political science department. He doesn't support any of the three candidates because they aren't opposed to the war as much as McCarthy is. Dr. Hamilton believes that the war must be stopped for two reasons: 1) It is destroying the country of South Vietnam and its people, 2) the war is splitting our country in half.

Of the three candidates, Dr. Hamilton feels that Richard Nixon is in the best position to end the war. Because he was not in the Johnson administration, he can go into office and declare that the war was a complete mistake and bring home the troops immediately. Mr. Humphrey cannot do this as easily. He also feels that Nixon is an opportunist and if he is to be re-elected, it will be necessary for him to end the war, so he will.

Many people feel that McCarthy had no chance whatsoever of being nominated. Why did people work so hard for him? Dave Wahn, a sophomore in Liberal Arts, said that he was opposed to the Johnson Administration and its handling of the war in Vietnam. When he saw that Eugene McCarthy was willing to stick out his neck, then he was willing to work for him no matter what the odds.

Wahn also said that he hopes Humphrey gets elected although he feels Humphrey's chances are slim. "Maybe if the Johnson Administration pulled off some miracle in Paris or something, Humphrey would get the election," said Wahn.

Ruben Marshall, head of the McCarthy for President organization at BGSU last spring, now works in Ann Arbor, Michigan. He is running as an elector who will vote for McCarthy if he is elected according to Cohn.
